Crystal Extrusion Systems Celebrates Milestone

Crystal Extrusion Systems (CES), a rapidly expanding specialty aluminum extrusion firm, just celebrated their 5-year anniversary. CES produces aluminum extrusion profiles used in residential and commercial building and industrial products. The company started out humbly in 2003 with eight employees in an acquired existing aluminum manufacturing plant as a means of simply improving material control and reducing costs for its parent company, but has since expanded its services into new markets. Attention to quality, investment in leading-edge technology, and staff expertise have been key factors in its expansion success.
